

OUTSIDE JOBS FORBIDDEN TO TOWN FIREMEN

Jobs outside of the Fire Department, for regular employees of the Department have been forbidden by Chief Arthur J. Boudreau.

In a special order issued on March 23rd the Chief, with the approval of Town Manager Cecil Lancaster and Town Counsel Philip Buzzell, changed one section of the Fire Department Rules and Regulations. The new section now reads:

"Each and every member of the permanent department shall devote his whole time to the business of the department and is expressly prohibited from engaging in, being employed in, or giving personal and direct attention to any other employment or business. Odd jobs may be done within the limits of the Town of Wilmington, with permission of the Fire Chief. These odd jobs must not interfere with the answering of all alarms. Members who are on their three nights tour of duty shall be subject to ALL calls and will not leave the town during the day, or at any time, without first getting permission from the Chief. The deskman shall contact by telephone all off duty men who fail to answer the alarm. Every member of the Department is required to have a telephone and make arrangements so that he can be contacted by telephone at any time."

New Call

The new order was supplemented, two days later, on March 25th., by a new fire call, designed to call back municipal firemen. The order read:

"Effective this date a three (3) box will be sounded twice on the fire alarm to summons the men that are on their three short days or nights, that can not be reached by telephone to report back to the station. The three box will be used for Ambulance fill in or any emergency when a full crew is not needed.

The new orders, restricting the men in the department, followed by five days the visit of the Chief to the Board of Selectmen last week, at which time the Chief reported that the regular firemen (not the call men, as was erroneously reported in this paper last week) were not responding to the calls from Fire Department headquarters.

Members of the Wilmington Fire Department have, for some years, been employed in outside jobs, to supplement the salaries paid by the Town of Wilmington.

HEROIC EFFORTS FAIL TO SAVE FOURTEEN MONTH OLD CHILD

Ernest Stowe, 59, a veteran Salvation Army worker, grandfather of little Carol Noel and Clarence Noel, father of the tiny girl, are slowly recovering from burns, lacerations and shock resulting from their heroic, but vain efforts to save the life of the baby who was trapped by fire on the second floor of the Noel's Glenview St. home last Thursday morning.

Charles Bowser, a Carson Ave. resident had stopped on Meadow Lane about 6:05 am., to pick up Loyd Moulton when both men spotted the flames and smoke pouring from the Noel home. Racing to the burning house, they found Clarence Noel, clad only in T shirt and shorts, which were then blazing, trying for the second time to reach the baby on the upper floor.

Moulton and Bowser beat out the flames on the man's body, restrained the already badly burned father from another attempt to mount the stairs, and then, as Moulton covered the frantic parent with his own jacket and ran for a ladder, Bowser made two desperate efforts to reach the trapped child but was beaten back each time by flame and smoke. At this point, though even the stair railing was ablaze, the child's father had again tried to reach her.

Carol's grandfather, Mr. Stowe, whose own home is on nearby Meadow Lane, had by this time heard the frightened screams of his daughter and as the ladder, procured by Moulton, was placed against the

ONE DOLLAR PER CAPITA Guest Editorial

The happy coincidence of our newly inaugurated six day public library week and of National Library Week give us a splendid excuse for focusing attention on our quiet, unspectacular,
but potentially very influential public institution.

Expansion of service has been steadily growing through more books, more hours open to the public, more hours of staff work. Further expansion of services from the present building is still possible to some extent, but the crowding of patrons and pressure of work is becoming more and more apparent.

A new library is on the books of the Capital Budget Program, tentatively for 1966, modestly falling into line after a new police station, new schools, and goodness knows what else. Some thought has been given to economically incorporating it in a new municipal building, which also obviously is needed.

We suggest that during this interim period
before we can get down to concrete building plans and schedules of additional services, the library can expand in the minds of the individuals of the community. A library, more than any other public institution, reflects the character and life of a community, and is responsive to the expressed needs of its citizens. It's not too early, right now, to think about what library service we need here, to find out what a good library can do to improve the life of a community, and to express those thoughts aloud wherever people congregate, in writing wherever people read. Specifically, the library staff, the Board of Trustees, the Friends of the Library, are receptive to ideas. Our expressed thoughts will be an integral part of the new library that is sure to be built in the not too distant future.

THE LAW OF GRAVITY AND OTHER THINGS

For the past few weeks we have been just plain wondering about the re-election of Ernest B. Rice to the Wilmington Housing Authority. He was, if anyone was, the unwilling candidate of Increment.

He did of course file for re-election, but when it developed that he had opposition he lost all interest. While his opponents beat the tocsin, and otherwise searched the highways and byways for the elusive voter, Mr. Rice just stayed at home and paid attention to nothing other than his business. He didn't campaign. He didn't speak. He just wasn't interested. And he defeated his opponents by better than a two to one vote.

Perhaps it is a poor simile, but we have been reminded of how Sir Issac Newton sat under an apple tree, to have an apple drop on his head, with the consequence that Sir Issac discovered the well know Law of Gravity.

Mr. Rice just sat, and the votes dropped on his head.

Have an apple, Mr. Rice.

THE ENTRANCE TO ST. THOMAS' RECTORY

STONE WALLS MAY COME DOWN

The massive stone walls, in front of the St. Thomas Rectory, may be torn down, at least in part, to make room
in front of the new St. Thomas Church, now building.

Originally erected at about the turn of the century, they have been a landmark of Wilmington for many years. They were built at the order of a Mr. White, who at that time owned the building, and lived there when not at his home in Vermont.

Mr. White was a dealer in granite, and imported a number of Italian masons to construct the walls. The masons lived, during the time they worked in Wilmington, in the old Grist Mill, which stood by Mill Brook, further down Middlesex Avenue (on the down stream side of the street).

At least a part of the stone
which went into the construction of the walls, which total over a quarter of a mile in length, was taken from the old granite quarry, off Taft Road,
and hauled down to the White
place by oxcart.

Singer

The late Bill Durkee, of Salem Street was Wilmington's contribution to the Society
with the Long Name, as we call it, otherwise known as the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, SPEBQSA for short.

Bill, we must report, has been replaced, in the Reading
Chapter of the society by Tony Ferrara, of Cedar Street. Tony is a relative newcomer to Wilmington, having been a resident for about 18 months, and when he isn't singing he is wielding a hammer and a saw for a living.

Tony is going to be among those members of the Society with a Long Name who will be singing in the Methodist Church, Friday evening, for the ladies of the WSCS and their guests. We understand tickets may be bought at the door, if anyone wants to hear Tony.

Another Singer

While we are talking of the world of amateur singers, we might report on the latest doings of former Town Manager Fred Calabrese, now a resident of Westport, Connecticut.

Fred, now that he has more leisure, has joined an amateur opera company, and is expected to sing shortly in The Mikado.

Fred would have been a fine
member of a local Barber Shop Quartet, but he was always too busy singing a different kind of song.

Maybe he is going to be singing the part of the Lord High Executioner, which would be a good role for an Assessor.

$100 Fee

If you happen to feel sorry for yourself just because it is income tax time, consider the plight of Danny Raustiers of Wakefield.

Danny is a gravel operator who took over the operation of the Tello Gravel Pit, on Andover Street two days before Christmas. He went down to the Town Hall, and paid $100 for a gravel operators license.

That, he thought, was for one year, and was a reasonable sum
but last Thursday or Friday
Danny learned something.

The license was only good for the eight days remaining in 1959, and he had to pay the $100 all over again!

Lonely Tot

If you have a warm spot in your heart for children you might consider the case of Andrew Foster, a five year old boy who is in the Children's Medical Center, in Boston.

Andrew is a Woburn boy, from a family well known in this town, and he suffers from hemophilia, necessitating frequent blood transfusions.

Being a five year old boy in such circumstances is a lonely job. It has been suggested to us that Andrew would appreciate a few postcards to keep him occupied, and perhaps we have some residents of this town who could take a minute
from their busy lives to help.

Whose Golf Ball?

Generally, when a golf ball
comes sailing through a window
the hue and cry is 'Whose Golf Ball?', meaning, 'Who is the Culprit that broke that Window?'

But such is not the case down in the Town Hall, where a golf ball came sailing through a window beside the Town Clerk's desk, about 5 pm Monday.

TM Cecil O. has very carefullly hidden that ball. It has become the property of the town, he avers, and he further avers that were it to be left out in the open it would disappear into the golf bag of Town Accountant Bob Peters.

Some people will go to all sorts of extremes, to protect town property.

Rumor Seeker

Now consider the sad case of Maurice O'Neill, better known to the public as Dice.

Maurice is the Chairman of the Board of Public Welfare, and is the kind of fellow who is always interested in the latest bit of news - or even rumor.

As Chairman of the Board of Public Welfare he frequently has a few moments to spend with Pat Ring, the Agent, and thereby hangs a tale.

The boys down in the Fire House are the responsible culprits.

A few weeks ago, while all the would-be politicians were wondering who would be appointed Selectmen, in place of Frank Hagerty, the boys in the Fire House, very casually, let drop a morsel of information. Of course the fact that Pat Ring was within earshot just was a co-incidence.

The information, (strictly inside stuff) was that E. Hayward Bliss, former Selectmen, was going to be appointed to fill Frank's place.

Pat heard, and departed without saying a word.

15 minutes later Dice appeared in the Fire House, to sit in the chair just vacated by Pat.

Dice hung around for over half an hour. He wasn't asking for news, of course, but he undoubtedly was hoping that he would be on the receiving end of some morsels.

But the boys in the Fire Station didn't say one word!

Wrong Number?

A friend of ours reports hearing a news broadcast that Mrs. Noel, when she called the Fire Department last week, got the Town Crier instead.

Now we are wondering. We are often called, at that hour of the morning, by little children who are hoping that there will be no school - i.e. heavy snow, or rain, or just plain hopes.

The service number (not the Emergency Number) of the Fire Department is 8-3346, and the Town Crier telephone is 8-2346 so that we can understand how little children make their mistakes.

Busy Teacher

Jim Hansen, High School teacher, never was as busy as he was last week, on the back page of our paper. We unwittingly used his name in place of two other men, in addition to a picture of himself.

Jim said it was all right, if he got the pay of the other two men too.

Rock Hound

A few weeks ago in this column we mentioned how Walter Buck had found some 'fools gold' in Stoneham, where contractors are blasting for the new Route 93.

Since then Walter has haunted the area. It is a spot where many types of minerals are to be found. His latest acquisitions include a piece of fluorite, which is supposed to glow under certain types of light, x-rays or infra-red we believe. The fluorite isn't to be seen in copious quantities, but it's there.

Doe

There was a time when the sighting of a deer in Wilmington was not news. Today it at least comes into the comment status.

Mrs. Frank H. Whitney, of 67 Burlington Avenue reported seeing a doe, Sunday about 10:30 am. It ran across Burlington Avenue, near Harris St. and leaped into the woods. After the Sunday dinner some of the boys tried to track it, in the still existing snow, but they didn't get very far.

Embarrassing?

For our last item this week consider what the Boston & Maine Civil Engineers had to say, Wednesday noon as they were surveying, near Wilmington Square.

Or rather, let us consider what the owners might have to say, if what the B&M engineers discovered turns out to be true.

For they found that a large cement block wall that has recently been erected was built in part on the wrong side of the boundary for the lot.

The engineers say that the wall is five inches over on another person's property.

HEROIC EFFORTS (fr Fr Pg)

house, he arrived at the night marish scene and climbed to the upper story where he broke a window in a futile attempt to reach his grandchild. Flame and smoke beat him back.

Pure circumstances joined to take the life of Wilmington's fourth fire fatality since the beginning of the year. Little Carol customarily slept in the first floor bedroom of her parents, but waking early that morning, she had gone upstairs to play with her two brothers, Robert 6, and Raymond, 5. The boys, in their terror upon discovery of the fire, fled down to alert their parents, leaving Carol alone on the second floor. Mrs. Noel immediately called the Fire Dept., but in her panic, neglected to report the location of the house. A ten minute delay resulted as the Fire Dept. and telephone company sought to locate the source of the call.

Clarence Noel, father of the tiny victim is still hospitalized with severe body burns. Grandfather Stowe is recuperating at home after hospital treatment for his badly lacerated and burned hand.

GRAVEL PIT PROPOSED OFF PARK STREET

A gravel pit, off Park Street on the Anderson farm, has been proposed to the Board of Selectmen by Fred J. Jones, of North Reading. Mr. Jones is a well known gravel operator of that town.

He appeared before the Selectmen Monday night for a second session with the board having visited them three weeks ago. The site where he proposes to operate had gravel removed from it many years ago. The Selectmen are still awaiting a report from the Town Engineer as to the site, it having been impossible to survey in recent weeks because of snow. Jones was also told that he would have to appear before the Board of Appeals.

JAYCEES PLAN BUS SHELTERS FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

Bus shelters for school children and a safe driving school for youngsters with bicycles, to be conducted under the supervision of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, are among the projects planned by the local Jaycees for the coming year.

The membership committee is planning to send approximately 100 letters with copies of the organization's newspaper to the young men of Wilmington. Any additional information may be obtained by calling Ken Gallimore at OL 8-8758.

President Peter Lepore has announced that elections of officers will take place in late May and the annual membership drive to precede them, in April.

WORKING TO BEAT THE DEADLINE

While many other town boards have shifted to a twice a month meeting schedule members of the Wilmington Housing Authority have been meeting almost nightly, at their headquarters on Deming Way, to complete the preliminary Urban Renewal Plans by the March 31st deadline.

READING UNITARIANS SUPPORT MERGER PLANS

At a meeting called by Glen Woodbury, clerk, and moderated by Dana Packard, chm of the Bd of Trustees, the American Unitarian Assoc. and the Universalist Church of America, voted to support merger plans.

Mrs. David Boyd, chm. of the denomination affairs committee led the discussion which was the culmination of Reading's part in the long standing attempt in the United States and Canada to bring the two liberal religious groups together.

The final international plebiscite will end at midnight, Mar. 31 when votes are tallied by the Joint Merger Commission whose headquarters are in Wellesley Hills, Mass.

SELECTMAN JOHN BROOKS OPPOSES HOUSE BILL

John Brooks, newest member of the Board of Selectmen, spoke up Monday night for his first bit of decisive action since being elected.

Brooks spoke up when other Selectmen were prepared to dismiss a letter from the Massachusetts Federation of Tax Payers as inconsequential. The bill which the Mass Tax-payers had mentioned was House Bill 1305, relative to powers of the Massachusetts Parking Authority, which is now building a garage under Boston Common.

When Brooks explained that the bill would give the Authority power to do similar things in any town or city, not only without town approval, but without even notification, the Selectmen decided to send a letter to Representatives Frank Tanner and Tom Donohue, opposing the bill.

ED LARK TO SUB FOR LATE RUSSELL WRIGHT

Ed Lark, a 29 year old Californian, already well known in the field of photography will substitute for the late Russell Wright at the Lowell Memorial Auditorium, Apr. 10, 3 p.m. Using the same country Mr Wright had planned on presenting, Lark will bring Israel, crossroad of the world, with her people, culture and history to his audience.

The Moses Greely Parker Lecture Committee feels great satisfaction that it was able to engage such a talented substitute for this lecture on a fascinating country.

TM INSTRUCTED TO FILL OUT PAPERS FOR WORKABLE PROGRAM

The Board of Selectmen, Monday night, discussed at some length a registered letter received from the Wilmington Housing Authority, requesting that the 'Workable Program' necessary for Urban Renewal be completed before March 31st.

A good deal of the conversation was by Mr. Kidder, who opened his observations by remarking that if the Housing Authority didn't spend so much money for registered mail they would have more money for other purposes. As the result of his conversation the Town Manager was instructed to fill out the necessary forms.

TELLO PIT STOPPED BY SELECTMEN

The Board of Selectmen, Monday night, stopped operations at a gravel pit, off Andover Street, owned by Daniel Tello. The operator of the pit, it turned out, had been operating unknowingly without a license. He is engaged in trucking fill to the site of the new St. Thomas Church, on the Rectory grounds at Middlesex Avenue.

Tello was told that he could have his license in a few days if everything checked out OK. The Building Inspector testified that he had not 'gone down below grade', but he was not certain as to the limits of the pit, which is licensed for three acres.

BEHIND THE SCENES

By Ken Crotty

The lowly mosquito, which already has a bad reputation, has been clobbered with still another bad habit.

A species of mosquito which is fairly frequent in salt water marshes along the Eastern seaboard has been identified as one of principal carriers of the virus encephalitis which killed 21 in the New Jersey outbreak of the virus during the period from Aug. 17 through Oct. 15 last year.

The scientific term for this killer mosquito is 'aedes sollicitans', which seems altogether too respectable a name for this little monster.

Another close relation of the salt marsh mosquito, the fairly common fresh water mosquito was identified as a carrier of this dread disease also. Its scientific name is 'culex restuans'.

These facts were revealed at the 47th annual meeting of the New Jersey Mosquito Extermination at Atlantic City.

New Jersey, which saw one of its most populous communities, Jersey City, call its professional team 'The Skeeters', has good reason to try to rid itself of the menace inherent in this troublesome insect.

The PERI-SCOOP--A number of Massachusetts home-owners were stung when the International Swimming Pool Corporation, which marketed home pools under the name of the Esther Williams Swimming Pool, went broke. Many were nipped as high as $4000.

Miss Williams lost no money though. She was paid a goodly sum for the use of her name on the product.

In the bankruptcy proceedings of the firm, the assets were listed at $1,250,000 and the liabilities at $1,714,500.

Next month, April, is the month of the Cancer Crusade in Massachusetts.

The forecast for this year in Massachusetts is for approximately 14,000 new cases of the dread malady. During that time it is estimated that 4,600 will be saved from the corrosive effects of cancer by radiation and surgery.

But the grim part of the story is that some 9,800 deaths will be caused by cancer in Massachusetts during 1960.

According to a recent publication of the American Cancer Society, 93 percent of the medical men in Massachusetts who participated in a survey conducted by the AMS favored a major public relations campaign to urge teenagers not to take up smoking.

HERE AND THERE--One of the most honored plays on Television was 'Little Moon of Alban' which James Costigan wrote and in which Julie Harris starred. It won most of the major TV awards the year it was presented.

'Little Moon' is to be made into a stage play next year and Julie Harris will play in it, of course.

Theatrically speaking, the saddest news to come out of Massachusetts this week concerned the Group 20 Players of Wellesley.

This company of young actors and actresses, who have presented some of the finest things in summer productions, have called it a day.

The Group was $50,000 in the red, last week they threw in the sponge. Although their productions were consistently top notch, the Wellesley players have experienced rough going the past two seasons particularly last year.

They were plagued by bad weather, particularly on opening nights. The hardest blow, however, was the fanfare which attended the brand new Cambridge Drama Festival at Bright on on the banks of the Charles. Since the Cambridge Drama Festival catered to almost the very same clientele as the Group 20, it was a foregone conclusion that one would be forced to suspend operations eventually.

Last week, the Group 20 Players did exactly that. They will be missed.

ANOTHER MISSING TOWN BOUND?

The Town Bound that marks the meeting place of Wilmington, No. Reading and Andover is just about to go onto the 'missing town bound list' the Board of Selectmen were told Monday night, by Building Inspector Minot Anderson and Principal Assessor Stanley Webber.

Gravel operations, in Andover are seriously threatening the bound. Last fall Mr. Webber drew the attention of the board to the operations, and at that time a letter was written to the Andover Selectmen. Now the operations have resumed. Andover was supposed to have given directions to the operator to keep away from the town bound.

Webber told the Selectmen that it was possible that the gravel operations had been extended onto the property of the late Tom Daly, in Wilmington. He was not exactly certain, but, he said 'it looks awfully close'.

In addition to instructing the TM to write a letter to the Andover Town Manager, the Selectmen expressed through Chairman Nick De Felice, the thought that the Town Counsel should 'throw an injunction' at the gravel operator.

TM Lancaster has already written two letters on the matter to Town Manager Tom Duff, of Andover.

Two girls from each troop will act as hostesses.

There will be moving pictures after the dinner of the Girl Scout Colorado Roundup, and Miss Ashworth will speak on her experiences at Squaw Valley, California.

RALPH SWANSON TO HEAD ROTARY

Ralph Swanson, 35, Winchester resident and Vice President in charge of production at Raffi & Swanson has been named by the nominating committee as President of Rotary for the 1960-61 term.

Ralph is married to the former Berta Johnson and is the father of six children. He was the first of Raffi & Swanson personnel to work at the local plant being manager of the construction work when the buildings were started. He will be inducted into office in July.

terested in sprucing up their home. Although the tired old schemes of 'gyp salesmen' are largely eliminated, the latest reports from 79 of 84 offices of the National Better Business Bureau indicate there's still room for improvement. If you are thinking of remodeling or repairing, be sure to compare costs, financing, materials and the reputations of firms you do business with. The Better Business Bureau notes that complaints have increased in 'bait' advertising where salesmen attract buyers with a '$4.00 storm window' and then try to switch to something more expensive, as just one of many examples.
